6. 1st Squadron: belonging to the 3rd Regiment.
7. 2nd Squadron: belonging to the 3rd Regiment.
8. 3rd Squadron: belonging to the 3rd Regiment.
9. Guard Company: [redacted] the exact number of personnel 25X1 assigned to the guard company was 220. They were attached to the 3rd Jet Fighter Regiment, [redacted] 25X1 [redacted] guarded the entire airfield. 25X1
10. Communications Company: like the guard company the communications company was also attached to the 3rd Jet Fighter Regiment, [redacted] had about 200 personnel. 25X1
11. Transportation Company: the transportation company was also attached to the 3rd Jet Fighter Regiment. [redacted] 25X1 This company had about 80 personnel. 25X1
12. 11th Independent Aerial Reconnaissance Squadron: this organization was directly subordinate to Air Force Headquarters in Warsaw. The total personnel strength of this organization was 60, of which 17 to 20 were officers. It was commanded by a Polish captain (name unknown). [redacted] This organization was formed in the autumn of 1952 and its total aircraft strength was 13 PO-2 type aircraft. The mission of the 11th was to observe a said infantry enemy and return to base and advise infantry commanders of their position, strength, location, etc. In the spring of 1953 the Polish infantry (believed to be one division) was on maneuvers somewhere within 50 km. of Wroclaw. The 11th performed their reconnaissance. The divisional commander flew with the 11th to observe the maneuvers. The 11th with their PO-2 type aircraft used some farm lands as an airfield during the maneuvers. The PO-2 aircraft were not equipped with any radios. Even their intercom system was a primitive affair; strung out cables in aircraft to the two individual positions. All reconnaissance flight observations were reported to responsible commanders upon landing. The communication with ground was done in the following manner: there would be two posts on ground with a wire between them and a message tied to the wire; the aircraft would fly low hooking the wire with the message. The 11th often practiced this message hooking procedure to keep proficient. The flying activity of the 11th was frequent. Out of the 13 aircraft assigned, about three were always out of commission for inspection. They had no difficulty concerning A.O.C.P. because the PO-2 was a very common aircraft and all parts were always easy to get. 25X1
13. 12th Air Independent Squadron, for Adjusting Artillery Fire: this organization, as the above listed under Pt. 12 (11th), was also directly subordinate to Air Force Headquarters in Warsaw and entirely independent. [redacted] The 12th was formed in the autumn of 1952 and from that time their aircraft strength was gradually being built up to their TO & E of 13; [redacted] total aircraft strength of the 12th was seven IL-2's and three PO-2 type aircraft. The underneath of all aircraft was painted a light blue, the top part a dark green, the hub of the propeller and 15 cm. of the vertical stabilizer were painted yellow. The 12th was commanded by a Polish Captain PADUCH, Zygmunt. [redacted] 25X1 The total personnel strength of the 12th was 102, of which 25 were officers. The following is a list of known personalities from the 12th Air Independent Squadron, for Adjusting Artillery Fire. All were Polish nationals and in the Polish Air Force. 25X1
